

ASH Scotland and STCA Youth and Tobacco Conference

25 March 2010, Dynamic Earth, Edinburgh

This conference sets out to engage those interested in and working with young people in a range of youth settings. This includes youth work, education, residential care and health workers, who have a role to play in discouraging the uptake of smoking and tobacco use by young people and encouraging young people to quit.

World Café: Explore five hot tobacco topics that impact on your work with young people

- meeting young people's needs, for practice development in tobacco prevention & support
- exploring the breadth of tobacco and integrating into work with young people
- meaningful youth participation in delivering smoking prevention messages and contributing to tobacco control activity
- bridging the gap in smoking prevention through partnership working
- challenging social and cultural norms of smoking and tobacco use and promoting smoke-free youth settings

Through an informative and interactive programme this conference will:

- provide key presentations on the impact of tobacco on young people and the factors that influence smoking
- demonstrate what opportunities exist to get involved in tackling tobacco issues with young people
- engage delegates in a practical and interactive World Café that will inspire networking, discussion and learning on tobacco issues that impact on young people in a range of youth settings
- and identify throughout the conference, key issues and recommendations for future development.
